Industry Heads
Sentenced to Die

LONDON (CP-Reuters)—Official confirmation that the purge of the German officer corps is still in progress has come out of Germany. Heinrich Himmler, acting in Adolf Hitler's name, is dismissing large numbers of old professional officers and replacing them by youngsters trained in the Nazi mill.

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt has published the death sentence pronounced by the Hamburg "Peoples Court" against Dr. Albert Will, 48-year-old managing director of the "Funk Industrie A.G." and members of the boards of many other companies.

Chinese Near End Of Offensive On Burma Road

U.S.-equipped Chinese troops neared the end of their campaign to reopen the Burma Road today as thousands of their compatriots fled from the central China crossroads city of Kweiyang to escape Japanese armies that threatened to cut the vital highway 235 air miles from Chungking.

Simultaneously, storm-halted action in the Philippines broke out anew with cornered Japanese splashing down Leyte Island's muddy hills in a series of suicidal counterattacks south of Ormoc while U.S. forces renewed a two-pronged advance on the key port from the north.

Chinese forces, supported by U.S. bombers and fighters, drove the enemy out of Chefang, next to the last town in the China sector of the Burma Road. Japanese offered little resistance but set the torch to nearby villages as they fled.

Only 24 miles lie between the Chinese and Wanting, on the Burma border.

Some 50 miles to the east inside Burma, other Chinese pressed toward the Burma Road from Bhamo where 1,000 encircled Japanese prepared to fight to the death. Elsewhere in north Burma the Nipponese continued their general withdrawal, abandoning former strongpoints to British forces.

ORDER EVACUATION

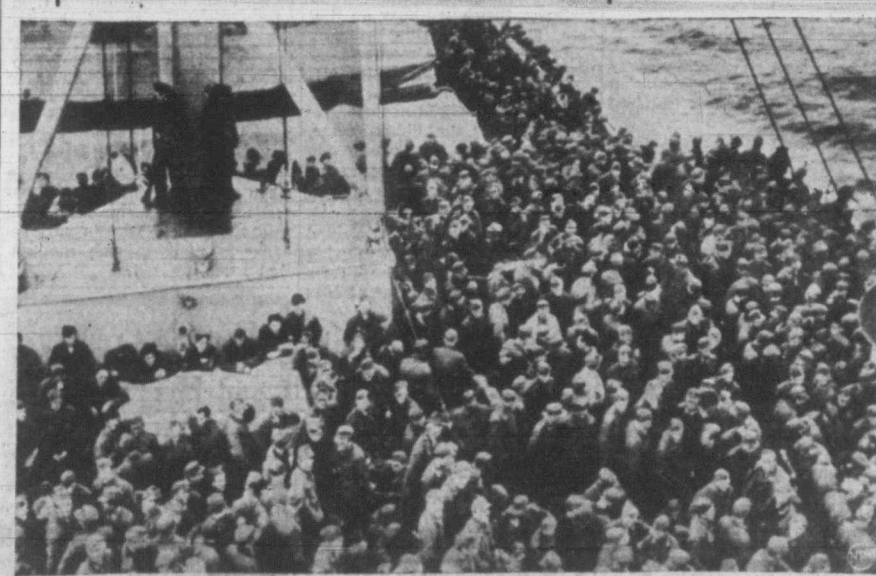

In central China, where the Burma Road nears its destination at Chungking, the Kweichow provincial government ordered its non-essential employees to join the exodus of the refugee-swollen population of Kweichow.

The order coincided with the massing of strong Japanese forces along the Kweichow border for an all-out drive to Kweichow and possibly Chungking. Nipponese cavalry patrols were operating well inside the province.

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, Baltimore (AP)—Army turned on speed and power today to defeat Navy's midshipmen, 23-7 and complete an undefeated season.

Barron raced Blanchard's kick-off back to his 25 to Navy's 45. Hamberg was unable to connect with pass receivers and punted dead to the Cadet 25. The Cadets got nowhere and Blanchard kicked, Hamberg being downed on Navy's 40. Hamberg was injured and went out of the game. Tucker intercepted Smith's pass on Army's 40 as the game ended, Army winning 23-7.

Drugs, Guns Found In Vancouver Raid; Six People Charged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Various charges have been laid against three men and three women taken into custody following raids on three rooming houses and finding drugs and guns.

A charge of possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace has been laid against Lait Landsburg, 23, Rancho Hotel, after a .38 calibre revolver and a German Luger automatic were found hidden under a washbasin in a room at that address. A charge of retaining stolen property has also been laid against Miss Landsburg.

Thomas Roy Clarke, 25, Rancho Hotel, is held on a charge of retaining stolen property.

Albert J. Rea, 29, was arrested and charged with retaining stolen property following investigations and search of the Rancho Hotel room.

Pearl Manarey, 30, with Rea, faces a charge of dealing in a forgery in connection with an alleged fake endorsement on a receiver-general's cheque for $129.

Robert Singleton, 27, and his wife, Margaret, 24, are charged with possession of morphine. Mr. and Mrs. Singleton appeared in police court and were remanded for a week and bail set at $2,000.

Terrace Civilians Suggest Beer Parade

TERRACE, B.C. Nazi Defences in Hungary Ripped By Double Drive

LONDON (AP)—Ripping German defences of southwestern Hungary wide open, a Russian avalanche tonight rolled north and west in a grand scale double drive to outflank Budapest from the rear and push toward the Austrian border.

A triumphant order of the day from Stalin announced that in the last 24 hours the 3rd Ukrainian Army had lunged ahead 22 miles north toward Budapest and 15 miles northwest toward strategic Lake Balaton and engulfed more than 300 places, including the strong points of Kaszovar, Dombovar, Paks and Szegszard.

"The breach appears tragic," said a Berlin commentator. "The Russians are out to develop all western Hungary and Budapest on a grand scale."

Simultaneously the German radio announced tonight Field Marshal Hindly had been appointed military dictator of beleaguered Budapest "to keep internal order."

The radio said Hindy, whom it did not further identify, had been appointed "supreme plenipotentiary" of the Hungarian capital.

Interned 1 Year, 5 Tokyo Raiders Escape From Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The latest of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders to be heard from, the five who landed in Russia, "escaped" across one of the world's best-guarded borders, and have returned safely to the U.S.

The five formed the crew of one of the 16 B-25 bombers which hit Tokyo April 18, 1942. This one made a forced landing on the Russian maritime province while the others flew on to China. This crew was interned in the Soviet Union for a year.

Chelsea Keeps League South Pace With 2-0 Triumph Over Fulham

LONDON (CP)—West Ham United, playing the first game in their London home park since a buzz bomb struck the stands 155 weeks ago, lost ground in the League South football race when Tottenham Hotspurs edged them out 1 to 0 before a paid attendance of 23,000. The result left West Ham in fourth place.

The amazing Chelsea team continued to set the League South pace with a 2 to 0 triumph over Fulham before a home gathering of 18,000. Arsenal Gunners snapped out of their recent lethargy by swamping Luton Town 9 to 3.

Oxford defeated Cambridge 2 to 1 in their 11th wartime soccer match today, staged on Cambridge grounds, while on the Oxford grounds the two universities drew 3 to 3 in their wartime rugger series match.

A. I. Osakew, first West African negro ever to captain the university team, led the Oxford football attack and scored one goal.

Previously Cambridge had won 73 soccer matches against a single victory by the Dark Blues. The other two were drawn.

Five thousand saw the rugger thriller in which both teams scored all their points in the first half with one try each. It was the first draw of the wartime series.

Throughout the entire country, visiting teams probably set up a record performance. In the English leagues 19 teams won away from home and four gained draws against 16 victories by home clubs. The League North provided 15 of the visitors' successes.

West Ham were fully expected to win, mainly because they had played 14 successive games away from home and had won nine previous to today.

Fire-Fighting No Cinch In England

Jim Bayliss returned Thursday from service in Britain with the Canadian Corps of Fire Fighters. Met in Vancouver by his wife, he marveled on arrival here at the way his son Bill, 14, left, and his daughter, Joan, 12, right, had grown during his two years' absence.

High in his praise of British technique in fighting gasoline and oil fires, and equally satisfied with the equipment firefighters use in Canada, Section Leader Jim Bayliss, one of two Victoria firemen who left the city department for service in Britain in 1942, returned to his Estevan Avenue home Thursday afternoon.

A natural inclination to play down his own activities, coupled with security regulations, curtailed his description of activity in England, but it did not check his admiration for the manner in which the people of cities in which he served took the bombings.

"They adopted an attitude of 'Let 'em come. We're here first.'
They may have been afraid when the raids were on, but they stuck to their guns and did a marvelous job. They'd go through a raid at night and go to work in the morning—if there was any work to go to. When their homes were destroyed, they'd double up. The loss of members of their families hit them the same as it would hit anyone, but it didn't make them want to quit," he said.

Lifting of blackout regulations in points he visited brought illumination up to the dimout stage, no better. The people were adequately fed, but had few luxuries.
Now, with the turn of the war,
they are eating better, the standard of bread is higher and, according to latest reports he has received, some Bristolians are looking forward to seeing bananas again in April.

GAS FIRE ON SHIP

On the technical side of his business, he has learned a lot in the use of foam equipment. He illustrates the effectiveness of the British method with the description of a ship fire. At a dock he does not name, a big tanker loaded with high octane gas, took fire in two tanks. The explosion ripped back the top deck like the lid on a can of sardines. Flames raged through the engine room and shot from the funnel. Using the British foam technique, the group to which he belonged, laid lines to the ship, played them on the tanks for two hours and extinguished the fire, saving the vessel and gasoline cargo in other tanks.

British pumps are good, but the majority of them have not the improved relief valve which permits shut-off at the nozzle.
"Over there," he explained,
"they needed fire-fighting equipment in a hurry. They had no time to retrofit for improved types, and, consequently, a lot of new equipment was turned out on plans which would not be considered satisfactory here."

Leaving Victoria with Carl Mills Sept. 9, 1942, he went east for preliminary training, and sailed for Britain in December.
After a four-day Atlantic crossing, his group shifted to London, and then to Lee Mill, a training centre near Plymouth. The centre was originally designed as an evacuation station, but the people of Plymouth didn't take to it.
"They seemed more inclined to stay put," he said.

CANADIANS APPRECIATED

"At first the people over there thought we had come too late, but after a couple of good shows, they took to us like a duck takes to water," he said.

He was on duty during one big raid against Bristol and on that occasion the Luftwaffe couldn't find the target.

"It had been dispersed to a great extent by night-fighters over Plymouth and we didn't take much. They were after the dock area, but they must have got lost."

Bristol, he said, has taken a pounding. Plans are being laid for the reconstruction of the entire civic centre, but, in his opinion, reconstruction there and in other bombed sections of England was overdue.
Plymouth fared worse than any other city he visited. Two-thirds of its downtown section had been leveled.

"On one occasion we attended a church parade there. It was unique. All that was left of the church were four walls. The sky was the roof, the grass the floor and grass grew on the altar."

Bristol suffered little from buzz-bombs. They were mostly directed at London and the southeast coast. He experienced one jet-propulsion bomb attack in London.

"They sound like an evirude coming over, then they cut out.
You can count slowly from three to seven and then the explosion occurs. It's largely a surface blast," he said.

Home Guard Of Britain Goes Off Duty Tomorrow

LONDON (CP) — The long alert has ended for the 2,000, 000 men of Britain's Home Guard.
Tomorrow the streets of cities and towns, villages and hamlets, the length and breadth of this island will resound to the tread of their last parade. The Home Guard, Britain's bulwark against invasion for 4½ years, has been stood down.

This Sunday, too, was chosen for the King's broadcast to these men who served their country so well.

The Home Guard has not been demobilized and all members are liable to recall in the event of an emergency, but with Germany's own home guards now in the battle line few people expect tomorrow's parades to be repeated until the final victory march.

The Home Guard began one evening in that dark May of 1940
when Anthony Eden, then Secretary of State for War, broadcast an appeal for "large numbers of men in Great Britain between the ages of 17 and 65 to come forward now and offer their services."

Two weeks later the Home Guard, then known as local defence volunteers, numbered 500, 000 men. That figure was doubled in two months, trebled in four and since then has risen close to the 2,000,000 mark.

Although they were never called upon to demonstrate their "determination to fight for every inch of the ground in every village and in every street," they were a vital cog in Britain's war machine. Without them soldiers of the regular army could not have been released in such great numbers for overseas service.

From a humble beginning when their weapons were pitchforks and rifles never meant for military use, the Home Guard became a highly-trained, modernized force.

Memorial Arena and Auditorium

A Civic Asset of Incalculable Value, which will PAY ITS OWN WAY!

Everyone admits that Victoria needs and MUST HAVE an Arena and Auditorium, but a question often asked is, Will It Pay, or will it have to be paid for by taxation? Even if it had to be paid for by the taxpayers it would still be worth every cent it cost, but the fact is that under the proposed plan an Arena can easily be made to PAY ITS OWN WAY. If it only produces as much revenue as the former Arena at the Willows it will easily pay its own way, make a profit for the city and thus actually reduce taxation. With one-third of the total cost already assured as a free gift to the city and with a year-round operation, not only for hockey and skating but also as an Auditorium for every other legitimate use, its future as a paying concern is assured. If more than the required $65,000 is raised in the present drive for funds, the extra money also will be paid to the city, thus further reducing the amount of the bond issue and the interest payments.

King Majority of 40 to 100 Predicted

Commons Expected to Take Confidence Vote Wednesday

OTTAWA (CP)—While Parliament stood adjourned today for the week-end, attention turned from debate on reinforcements to conjecturing on how large a majority the King government will obtain on the vote of confidence motion.

There appeared little doubt even among opposition members that the government had survived the crisis and would be supported by a sizeable majority when the confidence vote is taken, possibly Wednesday. Some government supporters conjectured the majority would range anywhere from 40 to close to 100.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, who resigned a defence minister when the cabinet, certain ministers excepted, declined to accept his proposal to send Canada's 68,000 Home Defence troops overseas, has already announced his decision to support the government.

Navy Minister Macdonald, Finance Minister Ilesley, resources Minister Crerar and Revenue Minister Gibson, who were reported as being among those who supported Col. Ralston's stand in the cabinet, were said to be satisfied with the order-in-council.

Hon. C. G. Power, former air minister, who resigned because of his opposition to conscription, has gone to his summer home to recuperate from an operation and is not expected to return to the house before the vote is taken.

SOCIAL CREDIT BACKING

Social Credit members—there are 10 in the Commons—have disclosed they will support the government. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, has not indicated how he and his nine followers will vote. The 39 Progressive Conservative members will vote against the government.

Developments Friday indicated many Quebec members will support the administration after expressing their opposition to conscription in an amendment to the main motion. The amendment urges general service personnel in Canada and volunteers overseas be used to the best advantage to supply reinforcements without resorting to conscription.

The amendment would allow the Quebec members to show their opposition to conscription and still vote confidence in the government. Many Quebec members have stated privately they believe Mr. King's partial conscription is more acceptable than the total conscription which likely would be enforced if he were defeated and succeeded by another.

JEAN QUITS POST

The amendment was moved by Joseph Jean, L. Montreal, Quebec, who also announced he had tendered his resignation as parliamentary assistant to Justice Minister St. Laurent because of his opposition to the government's policy of compulsory overseas service.

Mr. Jean was the second parliamentary assistant to resign since the conscription issue developed. The other was W. C. Macdonald, L. Halifax, who quit his post in sympathy with his minister, Hon. J. L. Ralston.

Later Prime Minister King said he had accepted Mr. Jean's resignation. Mr. Jean had wished to be released from duty so he might stand out as doing something without fear or favor in any direction. He was not sure Mr. Jean should feel obliged to resign simply because he moved an amendment to the government's motion of confidence.

ROSS' IDEA

Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross, P.C., Souris, Man., proposed John Bracken be called in to form a government. He declared that under democracy there must be an alternative to a government which has lost the confidence of the people and the alternative need not be a general election.

Lt.-Col. Ross said Mr. Bracken was "well versed in the science of government" and could obtain at least six elected Progressive Conservative members who would be stronger ministers than the average of the present ministers. He could also obtain outstanding citizens outside Parliament such as Charles P. McTaggart, national chairman of the party, Henry Borden, James Macdonnell and others.

Ross Gray, L. Lambton West, Ont., said he was not satisfied with the order-in-council which authorizes the sending of 16,000 draftees overseas, but would vote with the government on the motion of confidence and against the Progressive Conservative amendment.

Besides Lt.-Col. Ross, George S. White, P.C., Hastings-Peterborough, Ont., and T. L. Church, P.C., Toronto-Broadview, urged all Home Defence troops be made liable for overseas service.

The House adjourned after the afternoon sitting to resume Monday with Leonard Tremblay, L. Dorchester, Que., having the floor.

TO EXTEND TERM?

In the Senate Friday afternoon Senator Norman Lambert, L. Ontario, predicted an extension of the life of the present Parliament was more likely than dissolution and an election in the near future.

Mr. Lambert, a former Dominion organizer of the Liberal Party, said: "I say that in spite of all that the (Prime Minister King) said to the contrary, I hope that, if necessary, he will not hesitate to prolong the life of this Parliament. And I do not think he has thus far said anything to preclude that possibility."

Nationalization Of Banks Discussed In Australia

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
SYDNEY (CP)—Daily questions about the banking policy of Prime Minister John Curtin's labor government have been directed at the administration in the House of Representatives this week since a cabinet minister hinted at nationalization.

Speaking last week-end, following the government announcement of its decision to take over private airlines in Australia, Information Minister Arthur Calwell declared the "government is determined to put its policy into effect not only with respect to air lines but with respect to banking. We have the mandate, the power and the numbers."

Several bank chairmen in the last week or two warned that government control of banking would give "bureaucrats" control of the whole economic life of the country and frighten overseas capital from investing in Australia after the war when capital will be needed for development.

Acting Premier Forde's only reply to parliamentary questions about banking policy was that the government's banking legislation will not be considered until the new year.

He protested against what he called "organized propaganda, engineered by private banks, which misrepresents the position and does a disservice to Australia by affecting the people's morale."

Newspapers, meanwhile, are demanding the government end the uncertainty and announce its policy immediately.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
Berlin commentators continue to insist Gen. Eisenhower has assigned to Field Marshal Montgomery and his 21st Army Group, on the Allied northern wing, the task of delivering the assault calculated to break through the Nazi defences and precipitate the crisis in the battle of the Cologne plain.

F—be it from us to argue that point. As a matter of fact, we find no flaw in the idea. A powerful flanking movement on that northern wing certainly may be the high "C" of the Allied offensive.

What Berlin doesn't know, however, and what we don't know, is when Eisenhower is likely to swing his haymaker. My own idea is that it now depends largely on the weather.

Up to this point there have been other factors causing delay. One of course, has been the necessity of ironing out strategic lumps in the Allied battleline as a whole, and, while there still is spade work to be done, the Allied front seems fairly well set. The supply problem now has been solved by the opening of Antwerp.

Hypothetical Canadian Vote Goes 8 In 10 for Roosevelt

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

TORONTO — The old joke about Franklin D. Roosevelt being "the best U.S. president Canada ever had" has something more than mere humor behind it, judging from the views most Canadians have towards his re-election last month.

The U.S. election was held last Nov. 7. In that week, reporters for the Gallup Poll were asking, what Canadian felt about the decision their neighbors had to make. The fact that the results would be published almost a month after the United States voters had gone to the polls and recorded their vote, eliminated any grounds for interpreting the survey as "interference" with U.S. domestic affairs.

First step in the survey was to find out how many Canadians knew the names of the two candidates. It was found that some 12 per cent of the Canadian voting population were unable to name both Roosevelt and Dewey.

The 88 per cent who could name both candidates, were then asked: "Which of these men would you like to see elected as President of the United States?" As some of the interviewing was done after the election, the question was used also in the past tense.

The result was decisively pro-Roosevelt: Roosevelt 79%, Dewey 4%, no opinion 5%.

The fact that the remaining 12 per cent of the population were unable to name both candidates is in line with other general information tests run by the institute from time to time. It will be recalled that, in spite of the wide publicity and discussion accorded the April, 1942, plebiscite in Canada on the draft question, the poll found around 10 per cent of the voting population unaware that a plebiscite was to be held, right up to the eve of voting day.

Contrary to what one might think, the poll found that U.S. party loyalties to Dewey or Roosevelt were not reflected in party breakdowns in Canada. Progressive Conservative supporters, who might roughly be compared with Republican party supporters in United States, showed no stronger leanings towards Dewey, the G.O.P. candidate, than did Liberal voters.

When it came to knowing the names of the two candidates, voters in Ontario and in British Columbia showed a considerably greater degree of knowledge than did voters in other provinces.

Although the question of whom Canadians would like to see president of United States is purely a hypothetical one, the fact that such a huge proportion of them endorse the man who is to be president during the next four vital years, will be seen by most observers as a good omen for Canadian-American co-operation.

Expunge Names Of Jap Americans On Memorial

HOOD RIVER, Ore. (AP)—A county war memorial erected 18 months ago by the Hood River post of the American Legion is today minus the names of 16 Japanese-Americans now in the United States Army, many serving overseas.

Commander Jess Edgington said the post had rubbed out the names "to let them know that we don't want them back here."

His post will try to ban all Americans of Japanese ancestry from the Hood River valley, Edgington said. Legionnaires will co-operate with those at Gresham, Ore., who have a similar plan, he reported.

"Hood River county has the highest per capita percentage of Japanese, compared with citizens, of any county in the United States," Edgington said.

The memorial plaque was originally inscribed with the names of all Hood River county citizens serving in the armed forces.

WISE MR. GARSON

MANITOBA'S PREMIER GARSON HAS the happy and useful knack of saying precisely what he means in language which everybody can understand. His public pronouncements since he succeeded Mr. Bracken almost two years ago have revealed a thorough understanding of the nation's economy, not only as it concerns the farming community, but also as it relates to the all-important necessity of a greater foreign trade—the basic requisite to provide jobs in postwar Canada.

At a meeting in Winnipeg yesterday of the Union of Manitoba Municipalities, for example, he declared that foreign trade was important because "it is the only road to peace," and since this country is destined to grow as a trading nation, its external business should impress upon all Canadians the importance of their dependence on buying and selling in the markets of the world as the first and foremost factor in influencing postwar plans. And he pointed out, incidentally, that there are no fewer than 1,400,000 persons engaged in the export trade in this Dominion, or twice as many as the number engaged in manufacturing. He then proceeded to argue:

"The time is long overdue when we should start thinking of the interests of this 1,400,000, rather than thinking exclusively of the interests of the 700,000 in the secondary manufacturing industries. Foreign trade is important because it is by far the largest factor in determining the size of our national income. In the depression years, export trade accounted directly for 23 per cent of Canada's income. Today, in wartime prosperity, it accounts for 34 per cent of our income."

While it is obvious that Canadian action alone will not accomplish all Mr. Garson has in mind, it is essential that Canadian policy should be one of co-operation with other food-producing and food-consuming nations to maintain stability of world prices for raw materials and foodstuffs. For he points out that the collapse in these prices had a great deal to do with "setting off the world depression of the 1930's."

One has only to consult the trade statistics of Canada for 1929 and 1933 to understand the relationship of external business to employment. In the former fiscal year the total stood at $2,400,000,000 and in the latter at $935,000,000—or a decline in that short period to a total value less than that of the Dominion's foreign trade at the beginning of the first Great War, when our population was only a trifle more than 8,000,000.

It would be foolish and unfair, of course, to attribute that serious drop in the nation's exchange of goods with the outside world to the tariff experiments of that period; practically every country had gone on a tariff jag in the late '20's in the belief that universal prosperity had been permanently pegged. But it is obvious that the United States long ago realized how Republic tariff policies had contributed to that country's unemployment problem in the '30's. The neighboring republic's import duties in 1913, for instance, amounted to about 37 per cent; the Underwood tariff brought them down to 27 per cent; the Fordney-McCumber Act in 1922 raised them to 35 per cent, and the Smoot-Hawley Act of 1930 piled them up to the all-time record of 47 per cent. Not until Mr. Cordell Hull embarked on his reciprocal trade pact program in 1934 did they come down to approximately 36 per cent, or equivalent to the pre-1913 level.

In other words, the period of unparalleled unemployment in Canada and the United States in the early '30's was the period of tariffs as high as Haman's gallows. Small wonder, then, that Premier Garson sounds the warning against policies which either ignore or do not fully comprehend the vital necessity of greater foreign trade—the foreign trade upon which the essential increase in our national income very largely depends.

SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY

RUSSIA'S SIX-POINT STATEMENT OF foreign policy is a welcome and enlightening document. It effectively rules out differences of political system as a deterrent to co-operation and friendly relations with another nation and accepts, without equivocation, the love of freedom and peace as a basic requisite. It likewise categorically renounces imperialistic expansion by the Soviet government at the expense of any other nation.

How the full implication of the simple language of the declaration will strike those Canadian "pinks" who can see little good in "the system" of their own country, but who felt the draft when Marshal Stalin dissolved the Comintern, is highly problematical. These are the strange people who roll their eyes to high heaven every time mention of Russia strikes their ears. They fail to understand the realism of the realists of Moscow. Marshal Stalin obviously finds "fellow travellers" the world over an embarrassment. They remind us of those well-meaning natives who have acquired, and delight in, an Oxford accent never heard within a thousand miles of Oxford.

Most Canadians no doubt will find greatest interest in the Soviet Union's officially announced principle of "non-intervention in the internal affairs of other states." This reaffirms the hands-off policy implicit in the Comintern's dissolution and, for all apparent purposes, effectively lays the persistent ghost of a Soviet government-sponsored world revolution. These principles of foreign policy, therefore, can be identified with the program which Russia has consistently followed since 1921—after which, on the authority of the world's most famous English-speaking expert on Russian affairs, Sir Bernard Pares, the old concept of Communism ceased to operate in the Soviet Union.

Some will argue, of course, that these six principles have been contradicted by the Soviet Union in its 27-year history, and that the Russian definition of such terms as "imperialism" or "nonintervention" do not coincide always with ours. And others may answer that few governments can point to a history free of contradictions between principle and action, or can say that immediate aim has never dictated policy. The point is that the Soviet government has published a considered statement of admirable policies, and has thus invited its Allies and the world to judge its future actions in accordance with them.

HIDEOUS WORD

ALL INTELLIGENT AND FAIR-MINDED people will applaud Mr. Mayhew, Victoria City's member of the House of Commons, in his suggestion that the ugly word "Zombie" no longer should be used in its reference to Home Defence draftees. Surely this is no time to resort to the lexicon of voodooism. The men whom the government has definitely decided will be sent overseas as and when military requirements so demand are Canadian soldiers, wearing the Canadian uniform, and they will eventually fight as Canadians—not as bodies without souls. Before many weeks have passed, 16,000 of them will have left this country for the battle areas, and others will follow as emergencies dictate. How some of them regard their military service, and regardless of their attitude toward the order-in-council which has changed their status, the application of the word "Zombie" to them is scarcely calculated to improve their frame of mind. Mr. Mayhew's suggestion evidently met with the approval of members from both sides of the House.

COMPROMISE OR APPEASEMENT

"TO COMPROMISE," SAYS WEBSTER, "is to come to an agreement by concession." "To appease" is to "calm; reduce to a state of peace; to allay."
"To compromise" is also "to put in jeopardy; to expose to suspicion; discredit or mischief." But this particular definition is more personal than political. Most people know when they are compromised; few when they are appeased.

For appeasement grows by what it feeds on. The more the appeasement the greater the concession and the less the agreement. Appeasement is, however, often confused with compromise although, as Mr. Webster explains, it is quite different. Under modern conditions, especially between nations, appeasement has never reduced anything to a state of peace. It has in reality induced everybody to a state of war. Appeasement for a long time was all that democracy could offer the totalitarian blackmallex. They possessed the force and the requisite ruthlessness. They were utterly unscrupulous. They boasted that they made treaties to break them when it was convenient. The blackmallex is the most dangerous of criminals because the more successful he is the more greedy he becomes.

To compromise is to discover the middle road. It does not necessarily entail the sacrifice of principle, although it may mean the sacrifice of a conviction, which more often than not turns out to have been a prejudice. Unfortunately, the fanatic, who usually tempers his fanaticism with cunning, views a bargain the moment he scents a willingness to compromise. He then determines to use force or threatens to force the issue unless he is given what he demands. Immediately he either has to be appeased or else suppressed.

To appease or to compromise? . . . aye, there's the rub with several states in Europe. There are some that conceive chaos as their opportunity to achieve political power. They would far sooner fight to govern despotically than compromise to govern properly.

FUNNY COL. ROSS

AFTER TWO WEEKS IN AN ATMOSPHERE of what has gone by the name of "crisis" the members of the House of Commons were treated to a little humor yesterday afternoon by Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross, Progressive Conservative, Souris, who proposed that Mr. Bracken be called in to form a government. The leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, the gallant and honorable member suggested, was "well versed in the science of government" and could obtain at least six elected Progressive Conservative members who would be stronger than the average of the present ministers; he "could also obtain outstanding citizens outside Parliament."

Of course he could; we could name at least a dozen who have the solution of all Canada's ills in their vest pockets. Most of them are such "good Conservatives" that their chief problem is to know what to do about a leader who has been in the wilderness for almost two years and has little hope of emerging into the light of political reality. But it can be said of Colonel Ross that he furnished the House of Commons with a little comic relief from a debate which has lost much of its attraction for those partisan zealots whose chief hope was the defeat of the government. Mr. Ralston's speech merely added to their discomfort.

Which is more important, knowledge or reputation? Well, knowledge keeps the regulars on "Information Please," and reputation accounts for the guests.

Saves Drama

By J. H. GRAY

THE LIVING DRAMA, the legitimate stage, is a dying art. The continent road companies are on the move bringing stage shows to areas which have not seen live actors, not paid ones, since before the talkies came in. What is more, these excursions into the hinterlands are making money for the excursionists. Crowds flock to the theatres and pay stiff prices to be entertained by live actors. We wouldn't be surprised if the stage is now enjoying its greatest boom in history.

As to the causes which brought this to pass, we leave that to the experts. Let them haggle over whether this means a revival of interest in the spoken or live-acted drama or whether it is but another manifestation of the war boom and the current epidemic of itchy-fingered spenders. Our one purpose here is to direct the attention of the experts to the part which the people of Toronto have had in the revival of the drama. Unlike most cities on this continent, Toronto never gave up. The rest of the country may have been seduced by the talkies, but Toronto was not. Once each week the Toronto Repertory company put on its benefit performance. Just as regularly through the years it has attracted crowds which would have filled any three of Toronto's largest movies, with enough of an overflow to stage a medium-sized riot at Queen's Park.

IT IS TRUE, of course, that this weekly performance at Maple Leaf Garden is not billed as drama. They call it razzing, a modern refinement of the old sport of wrestling achieved by the simple process of discarding all rules. Though it gets reviewed on the sports pages, it is drama nonetheless. It is drama with real, live actors, and it is first-class entertainment to boot. There is action, a mere soupçon of suspense, there are expressions of anguish, of pain, of indignation, of fear, of hatred. What is more, these actors are so skilled in their calling that, while the audience of 8,000 or 10,000 knows that it is only a scene from a well-rehearsed play they are watching, they cheer and applaud with the enthusiasm equalled only by opera-lovers.

The shows are staged in a ring in the centre of the Garden. The casting is superb. One actor is always handsome or young or on the small side. The other is always ugly or aging or very large. All the actors are fat. Each villain has a mean routine that is all his own. One is a nose-twister, another is an eye-stretcher or gouger. Still another is an instep-crasher or a finger-twister.

The use of these four tactics draws the outraged protests from the crowds. The victim is urged to retaliate and he does so with a meanness of his own devising, such as kicking his tormentor out of the ring on to the concrete floor of the arena and then jumping on him.

THE PLAY IS usually staged in four acts. The first three have the purpose of putting the audience on edge for the fourth. The John Barrymore of the Toronto Repertory company is a character billed as "Whisper Billy" Watson. The final act, in which Mr. Watson defeats the challenger from the United States, is something of an anti-climax. There is too much straight wrestling and too little play-acting. Hence it is dull and rather boring. This was the only flaw we could find in an otherwise well-balanced performance.

The comedy touch is provided by a third man on the stage. In wrestling matches he would be the referee but in the Toronto dramatic performances he is the straight man or foil for the actors. During brief intervals, while the actors recover their breath, he engages in a clever pantomime in which he imitates a wrestling referee rebuking a wrestler for breaking the rules. One of the straight men showing a fine feeling for his part in the drama, managed on several occasions to get himself tangled up with the actors and his antics in trying to extricate himself provided the best comedy turn of the evening.

OF THE THOUSANDS who attend, few indeed show any real concern with whether the hero or the villain wins. They get their suspense from trying to anticipate what will happen next, and to whom. Some of them become quite expert in predicting the course of the act and howl with glee when the act conforms with their predictions.

Here, Toronto has come up with a new wrinkle in stage plays. It has introduced audience participation. When an actor gets tossed off the stage the ladies in the front row are permitted to kick his teeth in if he urges impels them, which it often seems to do. Toronto, in addition to saving the drama for posterity, has revitalized it almost beyond recognition. Hurrah for Toronto!

FLOWERS

In the glad, green country,
In the dusty street,
Pretty flower-fairies
Show their faces sweet;
Quietly they blossom,
Take no thought nor care;
Yet their fragrant incense
Greet us everywhere.
God made all things round us,
And His work is good;
Every single creature Speaks the word He would;
But the flowers clearest
Speak these words divine:
"We, however humble,
Can be sweet and shine!"

Flowers, flowers glowing,
All around us here,
How their gentle sweetness
Drives out all things drear!
Joy and love they teach us
From the humble sod;
Verily the flowers
Are the smiles of God!

Letters To The Editor

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

While it is true that the police state these days, it is not the chief, it might be only fair to ask who gives instructions to the Chief of Police. Some of us heard the Chief ask at a City Council meeting, "Am I to crack down on all kinds of gambling? I want clear instructions on this; I don't want to be put on the spot." The Mayor turned to him and said, "You come to me, I'll give you your instructions."

This power belongs to the Police Commission, not to its chairman alone. We citizens might well ask why any "instructions" are needed where law is concerned, also just what instructions are being given, and if during eight years the same official who heads our city's business also instructs our police, who is mainly responsible for city conditions?

Such conditions are disturbing enough, but if we citizens have lost our power to improve these conditions, that is vastly more serious. What is the record? Fifty-three organizations, men and women, repeatedly asked that all kinds of gaming machines be prohibited. Since March 19, 1943, the City Council has had this power, but has not prohibited them. Various clubs asked that the $20,000 Centenary tax-moneys be used to build an enclosed bathing-beach or a Community House. The Mayor summarily dismissed citizens appointed to the Centenary Committee by its four aldermen, who then proceeded to divert most of these funds to other purposes. Gambling rife; no memorial of our centenary year; public-spirited citizens flouted; resolutions and delegations ignored. Who is responsible?

Should government by the people, for which Victoria boys are fighting, be lost to the people of Victoria? 13,000 of us have votes. I believe the majority are good citizens. But if we do not use our votes—only 25 per cent voted in 1943—and make a sweeping change in civic administration on Dec. 14, who must be held responsible?

CHRISTIANIZATION

William E. Gilroy, D.D., in the Times, Nov. 25, stated: "Slackers and wasters who refuse to bear their fair share of the world's work and responsibility are as much a problem and menace to society as they were in the days of Paul."

Dr. Gilroy admits there is something "amiss in society" because many can live without working and many, who have wished to work, are denied the opportunity.

Allow me to suggest that "slackers and wasters" are mainly the inevitable product of capitalism, sometimes called free enterprise.

They spring from two classes, first, Tolerers and unfortunates who, being poor "go getters," have lost heart in the struggle and, second: Those who possess or inherit riches not the result of their own honest effort. Surely it is not reasonable to expect such people to bear much responsibility to society. Would it not be more logical for those who do share responsibility to establish a social order where slackers and wasters would cease to be a problem?

Our political freedom is not enough, economic freedom must be added. Only this will provide equal opportunity and full employment. Production would then be to satisfy human needs and not to satisfy those whose aim is to grab all they can with the sky-as-the limit.

Dr. Gilroy deplors the fact that every modern nation has, thus far, failed to solve unemployment. He avoids mentioning that Russia, through socialism, has done so; that her people have less crime and less disease than any country known. This should make Christians pause and think. Surely the world has suffered enough to know that capitalism can never be a foundation for Christianity. By that I mean a social order where the Golden Rule would be possible.

Local Contributions Aid Parisian Children

Relief of hungry children in liberated Paris through contributions made to the Children of France Society by citizens of Victoria is acknowledged in a letter sent to the Society by Jackson Rodds, chairman, central council, Canadian Red Cross Society.

The letter, addressed to Mme. L. G. d'Esturbe, president of the society, reads: "I understand that your society handed a cheque for $3,216.90 to the Canadian Red Cross Society on Aug. 31, 1944. The matter was at once put in hand, and we communicated with the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva, asking them to see that the money was advantageously spent, and the commodities distributed to those who needed them most."

"You will, I am sure, rejoice with me in learning that in a cable received at the week-end, we learned that they had bought 245 cases of unsweetened condensed milk, which is being forwarded to the director of Junior Red Cross in Paris for distribution to Parisian children. In view of the difficulty in obtaining milk of any kind, I am sure you will be as pleased as I am at the results of the efforts of your members."

Canadian Nurses Happy When Busy

By MARGARET ECKER
BRUSSELS (CP).—Chief of Canadian nurses in Europe is an animated, intelligent little person, Maj. Mary Schaffner of Toronto and Halifax.

Maj. Mary Schaffner, who is probably one of the smallest nurses here in the trim blue uniform, has seen service in North Africa and Sicily before she came to the Western Front.

She's proud, naturally, of the work the Canadian nurses have done in France as they chased the front line through Normandy, France, Belgium and now almost into Holland.

"They have worked hard in this theatre," said their matron. "Until only recently they lived in tents with all the discomforts of that kind of life, but they have all been amazingly well, and most of them never looked healthier."

Anyone who has been with Canadian hospitals over here knows that working conditions first in the heat and the flies, later the rain and the mud, weren't easy.

"But the sisters never tell me of their difficulties. They aren't the type to complain," said Miss Schaffner. "They are happiest when they are busy. And when they are really busy, with a convoy of wounded coming in, it's hard to make them even rest. They want to keep on at their job."

Canadian nurses now serve with casualty clearing stations which are often only two or three miles from the front line and the sound of guns is never away from their ears.

"But the girls seem to work well under fire," said their officer. "They enjoy the hectic life with a C.C.S., they know what a valuable job they are doing there."

Princess Elizabeth Launches Battleship

AT A VICTORY SHIPYARD IN BRITAIN (CP)—Princess Elizabeth launched Britain's mightiest battleship here while the man and woman who built it cheered themselves hoarse.

The size, the armament, even the name, of the huge ship, are secret, but her target is the Japanese navy. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said "she will sail in tropical waters against an enemy we particularly want to beat."

(The latest edition of the authoritative volume, James Fighting Ships, lists as under construction the Lion, Temeraire and two unnamed battleships, each "over 40,000 tons," designed for speeds of 30 knots or more and probably to have nine 16-inch guns.

Britain's previous largest warship was the 42,100-ton Hood, sunk by the Bismarck in May, 1941.)

The naming of the launching of the newest and greatest addition to Britain's fleet was the first important public duty which the 18-year-old Princess has carried out alone, and it was marked by the first appearance of her Royal Standard, made for her by the Royal Navy.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

THOUGH it is the middle of winter and Mr. Sports Phan has his thoughts centred on hockey, soccer, rugby and other activities in keeping with the weather, a certain group in Victoria are thinking nothing but baseball right at the moment. I refer to the chaps who have become interested in establishing a professional baseball club in the capital city. If Victoria is to be in a position to seek a franchise in the Western International League, should that circuit decide to resume operations next season, all the many details must be arranged by the middle of January. After that it will be too late. At a league meeting to be held in Tacoma the first month of the New Year the directors will decide whether or not they feel prepared to again promote pro ball in several Pacific Northwest cities.

THE OTHER EVENING I dropped in on Clint Hodges, the chap who is solely responsible for launching the campaign to get this city a pro ball. Ever since February, 1943, Hodges has been working towards one end—secure a W.I.L. franchise for Victoria. Since his return from a meeting a few weeks back in Tacoma, Hodges has been canvassing the city with the object of learning just what support he can obtain from baseball-minded folk. "I just need the co-operation of a few Victorians and it will be a cinch to put over the deal," Hodges told me. Hodges, who boasts 20 years' experience in baseball both as a player and manager, has absolute confidence in the success of the venture.

FOR THE benefit of many baseball supporters in the city who have questioned the success of the plan owing to the scarcity of players I asked Clint about this problem. "Well, in the first place the team in Victoria would be associated with one of the clubs in the Pacific Coast League," he said. "That has already been looked into and such an affiliation would mean the coast team turning over anywhere from half a dozen to 10 players for farming out. I have also contacted another eight first-class players who are ready to come here the minute they know a club is ready to go. That would give us the nucleus of a good team. Then, if any of the local players wanted to try out they would be given every chance to make the team." When asked as to what arrangements would be made regarding a manager, Hodges expressed the opinion that would be left in the hands of the parent Coast League outfit. "If a P.C.L. club sends its players to a farm club here it naturally wants to be sure the rookies are going to play under a qualified manager," Hodges said.

THE TIME was never better to establish pro baseball in this city. The W.I.L. does not want to operate unless six teams are in the fold and under the present set-up it requires two new members to go along with Vancouver, Tacoma, Spokane and Salem. On top of that the Coast League teams are especially anxious to have the W.I.L. get back into operation. Right now the coast teams have no farming grounds close at hand for their surplus players. Naturally they are willing to lend every possible assistance to get the minor league back in the baseball picture. That is one of the big reasons why the W.I.L. directors are so anxious to get their league reorganized. However, final decision will result on the report given at the January meeting by Bob Brown, Vancouver, and Roger Peck, Tacoma, league delegates to the annual meeting of the National Association of Minor Baseball Leagues in Buffalo. If their findings are favorable and the W.I.L. decides to operate next summer, I hope Victoria once again enters the field of pro baseball.

Civil Service Club Badminton Activities

The Civil Service Badminton Club, with a membership of approximately 45 players is going full swing. Members are mostly from the civil services, with an odd outsider.

At present the attendance has been from 20 to 40 players, two evenings a week. So far the games have been the play-for-fun kind, as the shuttle situation is too acute for tournaments or match games.

Among the outstanding players "Buzz" Brown heads the list. He is well known to sport fans in lacrosse and rugby circles. It would be interesting to see him stack up against George Lane of the Victoria Badminton club.

Forced to the sidelines, Bob Tutill of tennis fame, who played badminton well before suffering a back injury in a soccer game. Other prominent members are "Buzz" and Bill Allen, Gordie Langley and Wilf "Splitfire" Boniface. Alex Urquhart, Johnny Norrington, Elsie Summers, Win Speechley, Lydia Clarke, Ina Peet, Ellen O'Connell, Dot Grahame, Margaret Mossey and Art Morrison.

Memberships have hit the peak this year, and it is doubtful whether the shuttles will hold out till spring. With three courts occupied all the time, the players just manage to squeeze in a few games.

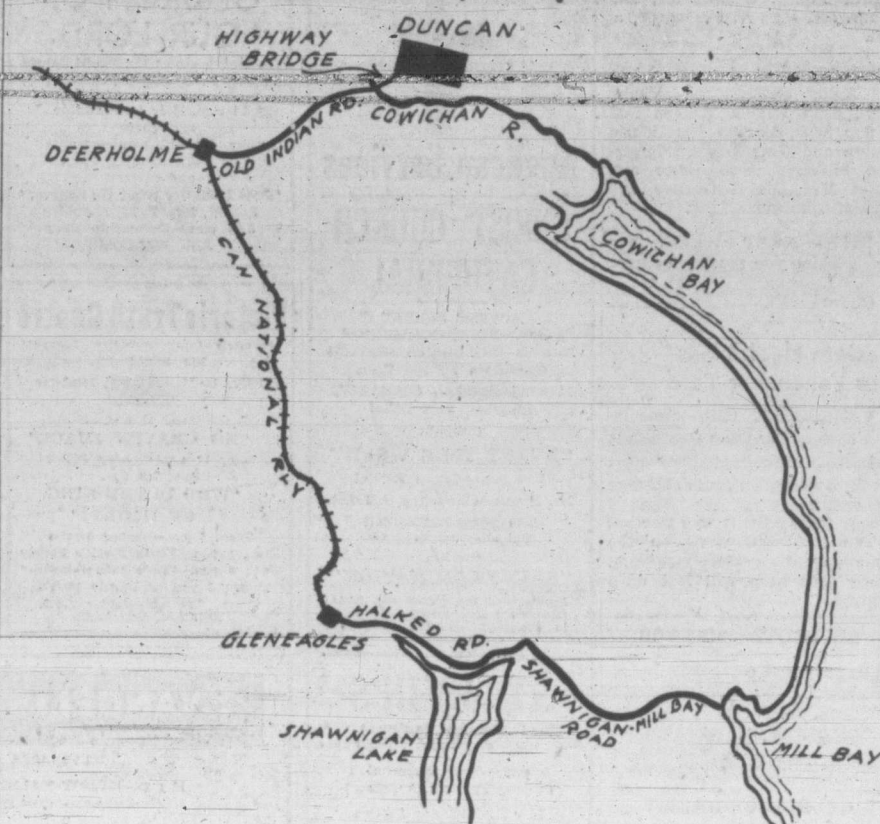

Jack Stewart Gets Air Force Discharge

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Stewart, N.H.L. all-star defence man with Detroit Red Wings two seasons ago, has been discharged from the R.C.A.F., officials announced Friday. He has been in the service more than two years.

They said Stewart was discharged in order to return to civil employment. It is expected he will go to his farm near Pilot Mound, Man., although it is reported there is nothing to hinder him from returning to Detroit to play hockey.

RAY DAWSON
When final night's play in the club championships of the Victoria Table Tennis Association open tonight at the Crystal Garden, at 7.15, the above players will be in the limelight. Dawson and Olson will tangle in the semifinals of the men's open singles, while Ruth Payne will defend her women's singles championship in a final against her sister Joy.

Area Where Doe Deer May Be Shot

With the object of providing island sportsmen with the exact boundaries of the area on the southern part of the island, where an open season on doe deer has been declared by the game department, the above sketch is shown. The doe season came in Friday and will close Dec. 15. Each hunter will be allowed to kill one doe, regardless of whether or not he secured his limit of bucks during the season which closed Thursday. However, all deer must be tagged and if a hunter has used up all his tags he may purchase one more tag.

Civic Arena Support Grows

Big Parade Planned

Public support of the proposed civic memorial arena-auditorium is growing daily, judging by the number of donations which are coming in.

The Citizens' Arena Campaign Committee is much encouraged by the response and by the interest being shown in the scheme. A number of business firms are supporting it and the youth of the city is also rallying strongly to the cause.

Next week, the various high schools, as well as a number of youth organizations, will complete arrangements for the grand downtown parade they are planning to stage Saturday afternoon in support of the memorial arena.

Information in the hands of the campaign committee convinces its members that the arena can be self-supporting and that the bond issue, which will be offered after the by-law has been passed, will be quickly taken up.

Armed with this information, the sponsors are answering the questions of many property-owners who are interested in the project. And it is expected that

Mark Fry Leader With Subpar 69; Wood Plays Well

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lanky Mark Fry, Oakland, Calif., racked up a par-shattering 69 on a rain-soaked course Friday to take the first-round lead in the 72-hole San Francisco open golf tournament.

Two-time former California state open champion and one of the five coastwise prominent golfing Fry brothers, Fry topped a fine field.

His 33-36 over Harding Park public links, a par 36-36-72 test, stole the spotlight from such stars as Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, leading money winner of the year and former United States open as well as P.G.A. champion.

Snead, winner of the Portland Ore., open last week, and Nelson teed off as the pre-tournament favorites. They tied at even par figures with five others. Among them was Fred Wood of Vancouver, B.C., who carded a pair of 36s.

Between them and pacesetter Fry were three others—John Geertson, Salt Lake City, and George Fazio, Pine Valley, N.J., deadlocked at two-under-par 70, and veteran Willie Coggin, White Plains, N.Y., with a 71. Geertson was a party to an unusual golfing act when his wife, Marie, served as his caddy, pushing a two-wheeled cart throughout the 18 holes.

Among the big name players back off the pace were Harold McSpaden, Philadelphia, second high money winner of the year, with a 75; Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., present P.G.A. champion, 76, and two-time former national open titlist Ralph Guldahl, who soared to a 41-38-75.

In between were such crack shots as Ky Laffoon, Chicago; Sam Byrd, Detroit, and Jim Ferrier, Camp Roberts, Calif., ex-Australian champion, all at 75, and Jimmy Hines, Amsterdam, N.Y.; Leonard Dodson, Kansas City, Mo., and Ellsworth Vines, Denver, all with 76.

Blake Makes Gain In Hockey Scoring

Toe Blake of Canadiens collected three points last night as his club met a 7 to 5 defeat at the hands of New York Rangers, and he took undisputed possession of second spot, two points behind top-place Bill Cowley of Boston, who picked up one point as Bruins defeated Chicago 7 to 2.

Elmer Lach's four points for Canadiens put him into a three-way tie for fourth place with Syd Howe, Detroit, and Gus Bodnar, Toronto.

Leaders follow:

Player	G	A	Pts
Cowley, Boston	9	18	20
Blake, Canadiens	11	12	23
Smith, Chicago	6	14	20
Howe, Detroit	5	14	19
Bodnar, Toronto	12	19	19
Lach, Canadiens	4	15	19

Toronto Seeks Lead In Tilt With Rangers

Toronto Maple Leafs can regain the leadership of the National Hockey League tonight by beating the team that gave them the opportunity—New York Rangers. The Blueshirts, in up setting Canadians at Montreal Thursday, froze the Frenchmen's margin over Toronto at a single point.

Although Rangers are winless in two games with the Leafs this season, they may be hard to beat. The Leafs still lack two main offensive cogs, wingers Sweeney Schriner and Lorne Carr, through injuries.

Leading the Ranger resurgence is colorful Phil Watson, who proved at Montreal Thursday that he delights in whipping old teammates.

First place will be disputed all over again Sunday night when both Leafs and Canadiens see action. Hap Day's charges will be at Boston where they absorbed a 5 to 1 trouncing on their last visit, and Canadiens will travel to Chicago to meet the last-place Hawks.

Canadian Navy Ice Squad Plays In U.S.

NEW YORK (CP)—H.M.C.S. Montcalm, a Navy team from Quebec, has been selected to play the Eastern United States Hockey League clubs in an international series that will count in the E.U.S.H.L. standings. It was announced Friday. The Montcalm team, including several members of last year's Quebec Aces, Allan Cup winners, will open its tour at Boston Jan. 26 against the Olympics.

CARPET BOWLING

Results of matches in the Capital City and District Carpet Bowling League follow:
Rangers, 19; Sherwood, 10; Civics, 20; Mt. Tolmie, 10.

Following matches are scheduled next week:

Tuesday—Civics vs. Friars, Mt. Tolmie vs. Yarrows.
Wednesday—Willows Park vs. Rangers.
Thursday—Sherwood vs. Mt. Tolmie "B."

'Y' Swim Stars Prepare for Gala With Vancouver

Riding on the crest of their victory over the Washington Athletic Club of Seattle, Victoria Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club members are looking forward to Dec. 9 when they will compete against the Olympic Club from Vancouver in another intercity gala at the Crystal Gardens.

Visitors are a combination of four groups: the former Crescent Beach Club, Olympic, Vancouver Y.M.C.A. and the star male members of Percy Norman's Vancouver Swimming Club. This will give them a star-studded lineup including Bill Thorleifson, Hal Brodie, Ted Willson and Terry Connelly. They are capably coached by Mrs. Noel Morrow, who was better known as Noel Oxenberry. She was a Canadian backstroke champion and a member of Canada's Olympic and British Empire teams, that toured Germany and Australia.

The "Y" swimmers are working hard and holding special sessions. Team balance is the secret of their success.

A diving exhibition will be featured with Terry Connelly of Vancouver and Ted Rau of Victoria doing the straight stuff and Don Burgess of Vancouver introducing the comedy element.

VARIED PROGRAM

The show will have plenty of variety from the tiniest tadpoles who will jump from the high board and dog paddle out to the more polished seniors who will speed through the water in search of records.

The executive of the "Y" club is endeavoring to get a few of the old stars into the water for this show, including Len Stark, who recently returned from overseas; Hugh Reston, from the air force; Bob Montgomery from the United States Navy, and Hazel Smith from the Canadian Navy.

Santa Welcomed Enthusiastically at Hudson's Bay Party

All paths for younger Victoria led to the Capitol Theatre this morning where the Hudson's Bay Company staged its annual Santa Claus welcome party. Well before 9 o'clock the street in front of the theatre was thronged with youngsters, the little ones accompanied by their mothers, and even the occasional father.

When the first show was let out there was a line-up that extended clear around to the Y.M.C.A. on View and Blanshard, but there is no doubt that the youngsters thought the show well worth the wait.

The proceeds from the sale of tickets will be given to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

The program got a flying start with the showing of three cartoons, "Pus 'n' Booty," "Ferdinand the Bull," and a "Popeye" and a short feature, "At the Bird Farm," all of which were greeted with shouts of delight from the 1,300 children which crowded the theatre.

Dick Reeve, as Santa Claus, made a jovial master of ceremonies for the final portion of the program that featured dancers from the Wynne Shaw Dancing Academy.

The little dancers were dainty in their different "doll" costumes. There were the four little ring-letted wooden soldiers, in red and blue satin uniforms with their precision taps, followed by the lithest little "baby leopard" whose body seemed made of India rubber as she did an acrobatic dance.

Then there were the Dutch dolls, wee tots of three and four, who performed with all the artless grace and lack of unity that makes the dancing of babies so delightful. Among them was one little boy "droll" in baggy red trousers.

A pint-sized blonde edition of Eleanor Powell, dressed in red satin and silver sequins, did a difficult tap number up and down a staircase on the stage, and a miniature Pavlova in the traditional fluffy white ballet dress, starred in solo numbers.

The dainty Bo Peep Ballet, featuring almost the entire cast of dancers, was the finale number.

Those appearing were Sandra Humber, Donna Easton, Anne Draper, Marlene Pearce, Diane McPherson, Diane Watkins, Patsy Anne Eagles, Patsy Butchart, Joan Whitwell, Patsy Southern, Terry Adams, Sharon Lea, June Oakley, Jocelyn Young, Wendy Sanderson, Rae Ivensen, Marilyn Wells, Sheila Hardie, Sheila McDonald, Barbara Peers, Diane Tippet, Crystal Irvings, Janet Parsons, Bernice Jennings, Nan Baxter, Sylvia Gange, Winnifred Lockhead, Denise Mulcahy, Louella Kalk, and Beverley Irvings.

The pianist was Dorothy Brunell, violin, A. Prescott; and drummer, Fritz Homer.

Pay Last Respects To Irene A. Dawson

With a host of relatives and friends, the funeral services for Irene Alice Dawson, who passed away Tuesday, were held Friday at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiating. An unusually large number of floral offerings surrounded the casket in token of the esteem in which Mrs. Dawson was held by the community. Hymns sung were "Unto the Hills" and "Abide With Me." Pallbearers were Frank Jennings, H. V. Jones, Robert Mercer, Frank Miller, L. G. Scott and Norman Whittaker. Rev. Frederic Pike conducted committal services at St. Luke's Cemetery.

Sadowski Punctures Artists' Conception Of Postwar Autos

When will the public be able to get new cars?

What will they look like?

These are questions which everybody wants to know.

Ben Sadowski, Toronto, president of the Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada, when interviewed at the Empress today sought to clear up existing misconceptions on these points to help public thinking.

One thing is certain—there will be no new cars for sale for some time after the war with Germany is over.

The industrial reconversion period will take anything from four to six months after the termination of the war before improved versions of 1942 models will roll from the assembly lines to dealer show floors.

Trucks will be the first to hit the market and after that will come the passenger cars.

Production of new cars, said Mr. Sadowski, must necessarily wait until the industrial plants of Canada and the United States are permitted to get back into production after the demands of the European war have been fully met. Two other points governing the reappearance of new passenger cars, he pointed out, were gasoline and tires—definitely important.

When production again gets under way there will be a few immediate structural changes in automobiles. In appearance, at first, they will differ very little from the models which were being turned out in 1942.

In the matter of prices, it was pointed out, there is nothing to indicate that the price of new cars will be materially in excess of those being produced before production was stopped.

Competition between automobile manufacturers, Mr. Sadowski pointed out, is desperately keen. And this factor was the best insurance the public could have as a guarantee that new automobiles would be produced as cheaply as possible.

Mr. Sadowski, who attended the B.C. Motor Dealers' Association meeting in Vancouver this week, is accompanied by Howard B. Moore, managing director of the federation.

Monthly meeting of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, Victoria Council, will be held next Thursday at 8 in the Y.M.C.A. The Dominion vice-president will speak.

A. H. Pease, Salvage Corps director, today reported 80 loads of salvage collected during November, doubling the amount taken in during summer months. Credit for the increase, he said, goes to Miss W. Dawson-Thomas and C. Brydges who have evolved a new plan for collections.

B.C. Offered Surplus From Forces' Stores

The provincial government today was offered consumer goods from the surpluses of the navy, army and air force by officials of the War Assets Corporation.

J. P. Gledhill, chief of the consumer goods division of the corporation, Maj. M. Montgomery, B.C. manager, and V. H. Hopper, sales manager, at luncheon met the B.C. Purchasing Commission, composed of C. B. Petersen, J. W. Stewart, deputy Minister of Railways, and J. V. Fisher, assistant deputy Minister of Finance.

The Dominion government has first priority on any surplus goods from the navy, army and air force, Mr. Gledhill said. Next comes the provincial government, then the municipalities and then the public of Canada. In last place in the priority list comes U.N.R.R.A. and Europe.

"We don't put anything in the hands of the European buyers until we're convinced Canadian buyers don't need them," Mr. Gledhill said.

Maj. Montgomery, who was adjutant at Gordon Head military camp when it first opened in 1940, said the Department of Pensions and National Health is interested in two fishermen's reserve vessels, Lady Beth and Lady Joan, now at Esquimalt, as fire-boat tenders.

U.S. Teachers Inspect High School

Victoria High School was honored by an inspection of the school curriculum by visiting United States teachers Friday. A special assembly was held. The band presented two numbers, "American Patrol" and "Orpheus in the Underworld." The latter composition displayed fine solo parts and excellent timing and tone quality of the orchestra.

The long and difficult composition was thoroughly enjoyed. The concert troupe sang "God Bless America" especially for the American visitors. This was followed by "Great Day" and "White Christmas." President of the Junior Red Cross, Maude Wallace, announced the events for next term.

Guilty of Forgery

Following one of the shortest trials in the Fall Assizes so far, a jury Friday returned a verdict of guilty against William Hodges, charged with cashing a forged cheque. He was remanded to the end of the assizes for sentence.

G. A. Rudd Seeks Saanich Seat

George A. Rudd, former Saanich councillor, today announced his candidature for a seat on the Saanich board as representative of Ward 2.

He based his platform on his knowledge of the municipality and experience, which he considered of material value to the ratepayers in the postwar projects that would require such knowledge and sound judgment.

Few Changes Seen In Election Picture As Nominations Near

A straight two-way fight for the mayoralty, a free-for-all in the council and police commission lists and ex. acclamation for school trustees appeared probable today as the city entered the final week before nominations preceding civic elections Dec. 14.

Nominations must be filed by Thursday at 2 in the City Hall. In addition to electing representatives to the different civic boards, property-owners will vote on two by-laws, one to raise $150,000 for the construction of a civic arena, the other to authorize sale of a parcel of land on the Gorge Road next to Manchester.

Entry of Fred "Red" Ramsdale into the police commission ring was the only new development on the election front this week. His decision to run raises to five the number seeking office as Victoria returns to the elective system in that department.

A resident of the city for 37 years, the operator of Red's Service Station, is making his first bid for civic office. A former employee of the city blacksmith shop, he was president of Civic Employees Protective Association for one year.

BASEBALL FIGURE

He served overseas with the 29th Battalion, "Tobias Tigers," in World War I, and has been active in sports circles in the city, being secretary of the Victoria Baseball Association for four years and Victoria representative on the B.C. baseball body for five.

Mr. Ramsdale centres his platform on an honest, courteous police administration, free from outside influence and keenly concerned in an educative program to curb juvenile delinquency.

Also seeking election to the two police board posts are Ald. B. J. Gadsden, present commissioner; Ald. D. D. McTavish, Earl Pollock and Mrs. Elsie Foyer.

Fourteen aspirants were in the field for five council seats. They are Ald. D. D. McTavish, Ald. W. L. Morgan, Ald. Margaret D. Christie, Ald. J. A. Worthington, R. A. C. Dewar, Harold M. Diggon, Charles C. Chivers, Doug Fletcher, F. G. Mulliner, T. A. Cresswell, Mrs. Alice McGregor, Dr. J. D. Hunter, Earl Pollock and David Essler.

To date only three candidates have announced their intentions of seeking three school board posts. They are Trustee Austin Curtis, board chairman; Trustee Bertha Parsons and former trustee Cecil M. Parrott.

New Atlas Movie
Story of Old Peru

Out of the color, mystery and drama of the past, the dramatic highlights of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize-winning novel has been created the entertainment-packed film, "Bridge of San Luis Rey," coming to the Atlas Theatre on Monday through United Artists release.

Produced by Benedict Bogues, one of Hollywood's newest and most astute motion picture producers, "Bridge of San Luis Rey" is an authentic and exact picturization of one of the most tempestuous and dramatic periods in the history of colorful Peru.

Star of the film is Lynn Bari, who portrays the exotic dancer "Perichole," a woman of great passion and brilliance who captured the heart of king and commoner alike. With Miss Bari, in outstanding roles, are Akim Tamiroff, giving the greatest characterization of his highly successful career as Uncle Plo, mentor and guardian angel to the beautiful "Perichole," and Francis Lederer returning to the screen in the dual role of Manuel and Esteban, twins who are as dissimilar in character as they are similar in physical appearance.

'In Our Time' Opens Monday at York

The York Theatre will present Warner Bros.' new production, "In Our Time," next Monday. This remarkable love story, clouded with the hardships of current events, takes place in Poland, just at the beginning of the war.

Ida Lupino and Paul Henreid have the leading roles in the production. Also featured are Nancy Coleman, Mary Boland, Victor Franzen and Nazimova, who returns to the screen after a long absence. "In Our Time" was directed by Vincent Sherman and produced by Jerry Wald. The original screen story was written by Ellis St. Joseph and Howard Koch.

Army Art Exhibit By Convalescents

An art exhibit by a group of servicemen of No. 1 Casualty Re-training Centre, Gordon Head, will be opened at the Provincial Museum, Wednesday, Dec. 6, at 3 and continue to Jan. 6.

The work of these men is one phase of the many activities carried out by the army during the convalescent period, when they are released from hospital. Treatment for injured men is divided into three principal phases, occupational therapy, physiotherapy and remedial exercises. The object of this training is to bring men back to their maximum physical condition before they are returned to service with their units. In the case of discharged personnel, it prepares them for a resumption of civilian occupations.

While attending occupational therapy, men are given instruction in woodwork and a variety of crafts. In the evenings, the Canadian Legion War Services, in addition to their entertainment program, furnish opportunities for creative activities, mural paintings, carving, music appreciation, play readings, discussion groups and public speaking.

This exhibit was originally displayed as a group project in the Canadian Legion reading room at Gordon Head camp.

DOMINION THEATRE

If there's anything that gets a composer down it's having someone steal one of his songs.

But James Monaco and Mack Gordon, who wrote the catchy tunes for 20th Century-Fox's "Sweet and Low-Down," the musical hit starring Benny Goodman and his band, Linda Darnell, Lynn Bari and Jack Oakie, had one of their songs stolen seven times—and liked it more each time!

It was while "Sweet and Low-Down," which is currently at the Dominion Theatre, was being made on the 20th Century-Fox lot. Every time the band got ready to play "I'm Making Believe," one of the songs Lynn Bari sings in the picture, they discovered that one of their copies was missing.

48 Victoria Musicians
In Symphony Monday

Mrs. Roland Burke... well-known as a solo harpist to Victoria concert-goers.

"Music for all" might well be the motto of Victoria's Symphony Orchestra, for conductor Melvin Knudsen has planned a program with a wide appeal for its first performance of this season at the Royal Victoria Theatre, Monday night next, at 8.30.

PROGRAM MUSIC TOO

"We're not trying to play music that is taxing," says Mr. Knudsen, "but it is symphony, nevertheless. We are trying to make everyone happy by giving them symphony with program music."

He is especially enthusiastic about the reception expected from Victorians, Monday, for Dvorak's Slavonic Dance appearing in the first half of the program and which demonstrates the influence of the folk music from which the composer first gained his musical education.

Melvin Knudsen, who has welded the talents of 48 musicians, including 10 servicemen into Victoria's symphony, has guided the organization since its inception three years ago. As a boy in Europe he was one of Felix Weingartner's brilliant students, and in Switzerland conducted the Basle State Symphony Orchestra.

OUTSIDE SOLOISTS

But he would much sooner talk of his plans for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra than of himself. "Our Victoria orchestra," he says, "is coming to the point where we can bring in good soloists as guest artists. This would further improve the technique of the orchestra and give impetus to its members. To do this, though, we must have the full support of the community."

Mr. Knudsen's future plans call for a guest violinist who would play, perhaps, Mendelssohn's violin concerto, to be followed by a cellist playing a Haydn concerto.

He is enthusiastic, too, about the progress of the Junior Symphony, which he describes as "an important stepping stone to the senior organization, from which the Victoria Symphony will draw its future members."

MEMBERSHIP

So the Victoria Symphony can carry out this season's plans, Miss Sara Spencer, president, has asked that last year's members do not put off joining until too late for the first concert of the season.

"Last year's members," she says, "should signify their intention of rejoining to any member of the executive or to Fletcher's music store, where season tickets are being sold."

Jack Barraclough, membership committee chairman, points out that Victoria's symphony is one of the few that are self-supporting. In the United States most orchestras depend on wealthy backers, and in England city and country councils donate to them. "We need 700 season members," he says, "to make our orchestra pay its way."

AT MONDAY'S CONCERT

Monday's program, culminating months of study and rehearsal by the 48 Victoria musicians under Mr. Knudsen, will include two overtures, the popular "Marriage of Figaro" and Franz Erkel's overture to his

Hungarian opera "Hunyadi Laszlo."

Baron Silvercrus, Belgian Ambassador to Canada, has requested the playing of Pierre Van Moldere's "Symphony in B Flat." Of the preclassical style, this work is in three movements instead of four.

Tschalkowsky heard a carpenter under his window singing the Russian folk-song, on which he based his "Andante" from quartette for strings to be played. "Shepherd's Hey" is one of the well-known rhythmic pieces developed from an English Morris Dance tune, by Percy Grainger, whose friendship with Edvard Grieg led him to take a strong interest in folk music.

Concluding number will be Grieg's "Lyric Suite," by the Norwegian composer, who breathes the spirit of his country in all his works. In the "March of the Dwarfs" section, listeners can detect the footsteps of gnomes echoing down the rocky ravines and mountain glens of Norway.

Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association monthly meeting will be held Dec. 5 in the Baptist Schoolroom, Quadra, at 2. There will be an entertainment, including motion pictures.

Budapest, Vienna Civilians Fight German Police Barricades Erected

LONDON (CP)—Skirmishes in Vienna and street fighting in Budapest between civilians and German police have occurred during the last two weeks, Ex-Archduke Robert of Austria said today.

He stated his information, obtained from reliable sources in Austria and Hungary, disclosed "a particularly grave situation" in Budapest. There Hungarian civilians erected street barricades and fought Gestapo battalions after the Germans had begun to round up persons suspected of underground activities, he said.

The situation has become so bad in Graz (Austria) that a Gestapo division was sent to restore order," he said. "Dr. Robert

Great Fires Rage In Saarlautern As Troops Enter

OUTSIDE SAARLAUTERN (AP)—U.S. troops fought their way today into Saarlautern on the west bank of the Saar River in Germany.

Great fires burned in the city after an aerial bombardment. From an observation post infantry men could be seen fighting in Pikard, half a mile south-west of Saarlautern, and two commanders, reporting by radio, said they were several blocks inside the city itself, and were backed by armored tank-destroyers blasting at strongpoints.

Allies 15 Miles From Rhine Factories

By JAMES M. LONG
PARIS (AP)—U.S. 9th Army troops battled into the Roer River basin town of Linlich today, shoving the northern arc of the Cologne plain battle within 15 miles of the Rhine and factories of the twin cities of Rheydt and Munchen-Gladbach.

The 9th Army men drove back into Roerdorf and Flossdorf, which had been lost to sharp Nazi counterattacks, and their U.S. 1st Army comrades farther south chopped slowly through fierce resistance toward Duren on the Roer.

Quiet was almost unbroken on the British 2nd Army front to the north in Germany and along the Maas (Meuse) River in Holland. There were no reports of action from the front in Germany east of Nijmegen, last reported held by elements of the 1st Canadian Army.

A British staff officer declared the Germans all along the western front were suffering more casualties than they could replace with trained men. Company strength in some cases is down to 40 men, compared with the normal 160, he said.

On the right flank of this assault base, Army forces were within two miles of Saarlautern, and farther east—infantry—was eight miles southwest of Saarbrücken.

U.S. 7th Army troops were exploiting what seemed to be a collapse of the German line across northern Lorraine. They drove to the outskirts of Haguenau and in a sweeping flank attack reached a point 10 miles northwest of the city—within 10 miles of German border.

Canadian Offensive In Nijmegen Area Feared by Germans

LONDON (CP-Reuters)—Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator of the German Transocean Agency, said today the bulk of the 1st Canadian Army was massed in the Allied Nijmegen bridgehead and Field Marshal Montgomery's expected attack may be centred there.

Sertorius said the bulk of Gen. Crerar's Army had been shifted "far to the east," and made references to the Canadians being relieved by British troops. A German D.N.B. agency announcement said today Canadian troops after an artillery barrage of several hours had opened a large-scale attack on the eastern side of Dunkerque.

3 Nazi Rail Yards Smashed by Bombs

LONDON (CP)—Three railroad yards in the Coblenz area, on the Rhine about 50 miles behind the western battlefield, were smashed today by more than 250 U.S. heavy bombers and 350 fighters. This raid followed one made without loss by British Mosquitoes on Karlsruhe Friday night.

Air raid warnings broadcast by Berlin indicated U.S. heavy bombers from Italy struck simultaneously at targets in southern Germany. It was the first time in almost two weeks the weather had permitted a synchronized daylight operation.

One Woman's Day...

By NANCY HODGES

PRISONER'S RETURN

WHILE IN VANCOUVER this week I met a young Canadian naval man who has been repatriated after having been a prisoner of war in Hongkong.

And I couldn't help thinking of his wife and of her emotions at greeting him again after such an ordeal—an ordeal for both of them.

And of all the Canadian wives and mothers and sweethearts who will some day be welcoming—or have already welcomed—a repatriated serviceman.

For, with all the joy and relief at their homecoming, there must be mingled feelings of apprehension. Of wondering if he has changed very much, or if he will find her changed.

Many of those men will be coming back to children whom they have never seen and to whom "daddy" has been merely a name and a photograph.

SHARED BY OTHERS

BECAUSE THERE is an understanding between all the women of the world, a link of suffering, between the wives and mothers of Canadian prisoners-of-war, it is interesting to hear the reactions of one of them.

Madeleine Previle, writing in the French review "Rafales," touchingly describes her own reaction to her husband's return.

She addresses herself to her own countrywomen of France, but she speaks with the voice of all the women waiting everywhere when she puts this question: "Will he be as I have always known him?"

Her husband had been in captivity for two years in Germany, when she got the unexpected news that he was coming home that day.

CHANGES IN YOURSELF

AS SHE WRITES: "You realize that the daily-increasing difficulties of existence have brought their changes in you."

"You've had so many new responsibilities since he went away. You have become so used to looking after the bills, to bringing up the children, counting on no one but yourself."

At the time, she was staying in a hotel a few blocks away from their former home, which had been completely destroyed.

"His telegram in my hand, I ran up to the grey, cold, hostile room which had nothing in common with the cheerful house he had known. I realized suddenly that I had done nothing to make it more livable."

"Not a flower or picture—there was nothing to impart the atmosphere of cosy warmth which he would like to find on his return. . . . But a new era had been born since the debacle. . . . I was alone, and I had to work all day. . . . what was the use?"
